Sunday's Scrips

A Monthly Newsletter

February: Love is in the air, and so are agent queries!

I'm glad you're here and hope you'll forward this to people who may enjoy it as well.

Whatcha Up To?

- I've queried eighteen (18) agents so far, and have five (5) left to get through today before I can sit back and wait for 3 months to hear back from them... seriously (although I won't be sitting back, I'll be working on the next project! 🎉) - UPDATE: Have already received one form rejection from a small agency with only two agents that I didn't actually expect to get an acceptance from, but always full of hope 🥰
- My local paper, the one I've been writing a monthly Whatcha Readin' column for over a year, now has me doing two articles a month! I'm so excited. Check out my newest column, Sunday's Snapshots
- I have collected seventy-one (71) rejections in my #100RejectionsChallenge and six (6) acceptances, and I have thirty-four (34) pieces submitted

- Jen recently asked me if there was a group or somewhere official to join in the #100RejectionsChallenge - there wasn't, but there is now! (More Below)

Want to read some real rejection letters? In addition to access to my monthly writing prompt (which could get you featured across all of my accounts), becoming an Ink-Slinging Supporter also gives you access to my rejection letters, so you see just how often I'm being rejected, exactly what kind of language the letters are written in, and just how different they can be from one publication to the next.

January Timed Writing Prompt Winner:

FIONA WALKER

“the smell of his leather mitten when he wiped his nose”

The leather mittens were tossed carelessly in a heap of diverse sizes, shapes & tonalities. 3 generations of his family shared a bond with that one brand. It's timeless quality and workmanship ensured a consistent feel.

He rummaged thru looking for a pair that fit. Ashe picked up the first one he knew instinctively it had been his grandfather's. The badly worn & barely recognizable leather had the distinctive fragrance of his grandpa's workshop. It was all there - diesel fumes, gasoline, sawdust, pine pitch, grease & even the faint scent of apple cider. That mitten had been wrapped gratefully around a steaming mug of hot cider at...

Fiona is a recovering workaholic currently writing a survival guide for dementia caregivers. She lives in NW Montana with her husband, cat, and way too many ideas for future projects.
